

CVS HEALTH FLORIDA OPIOID SETTLEMENT FACT SHEET

Under the agreement, which is subject to certain conditions and contingencies, CVS Health will settle all opioid claims against it by Florida for $484 million, to be paid over a period of 18 years.

The settlement value should not be extrapolated to any other opioid-related litigation in which CVS Health is involved – especially considering the unique circumstances:

WHEREAS, given the unique facts and circumstances associated with the Florida AG Action, including without limitation the imminent trial date and the 2012 regulatory findings against certain CVS pharmacies in the State of Florida, the Settlement reflects a substantial premium for the State of Florida.

The claims encompass alleged conduct going back more than a decade, and since then CVS Health has been a leader in helping fight opioid abuse:

WHEREAS, in the years following the 2012 regulatory findings against certain CVS retail pharmacies in Florida, CVS has put in place innovative, comprehensive and industry-leading policies, procedures and controls relating to the dispensing of prescription opioid medications and other controlled substances. The Settlement will permit the State and CVS to continue to work in partnership to further the public health in this respect and other respects. To the extent CVS's existing practices, policies, procedures or conduct are referenced or impacted by any provision of this Settlement, any such reference or impact does not reflect a contention or conclusion by any Party that CVS's current conduct is in any respect improper or contrary to law.

By the numbers:

241 safe medication disposal units in Florida CVS Pharmacy locations and local police departments have collected nearly 185,000 pounds of unused medication

All Florida CVS Pharmacy locations (more than 850) offer access to life-saving opioid overdose reversal medication
